

Swisse Renault Sport Rally Team showcased at Australian F1 GP

The Swisse Renault Sport Rally Team featured prominently at last weekend's 2013 Rolex Australian Formula One Grand Prix as part of Renault Australia's involvement with the event.

A mock Renault Sport Clio R3 rally car together with a supporting Koleos service vehicle, with matching Swisse Renault Sport Rally Team livery, were a strong feature amongst the Renault Australia display which was designed to not only showcase Renault's domestic vehicle range but also their extensive and broad involvement in both international and domestic motorsport. Renault Australia's "live site" was a very impressive feature of the event and located in a very central and high traffic area at the base of the main pedestrian bridge taking attendees from Gate 1 to the inside of the track.

Team Principal and Lead Driver Scott Pedder was also part of Mark Webber's first drive of the exciting New Clio RS at Sandown Raceway last Thursday. This impressive new car is due out in Australia at the end of 2013. Check out the below video for details of this exciting launch.

Pedder then spent race day mixing it with senior executives from both Renault Australia, Renault F1 and Renault Sport France.

Pedder is very grateful for the support that Renault Australia has provided to his team and by extension the 2013 East Coast Bullbars Australian Rally Championship (ECB ARC).

"The people at Renault Australia have been a pleasure to deal with and have taken me in as part of their extended family. The incorporation of the Swisse Renault Sport Rally Team into their activation at the 2013 Rolex Australian Formula One Grand Prix is just a small example of the support that they have provided our team and sponsors. This also provides the 2013 ECB ARC with great exposure as part of Australia's largest motorsport event in front of over 280,000 people."

The 2013 East Coast Bullbars Australian Rally Championship continues with round two, the QUIT Forest Rally from Western Australia from April 5-7.
